Hi, everybody! Welcome to Math 3303. I am your teacher and you may call me "Ms. Leigh". I'm not very scary and I am very short...it's what everybody calls me.

Now this course is on video. In the videos are pop quizzes for you to take to check your understanding as you're learning the new material. You may write down the answers and put them in all at once to the Electronic Multiple Choice Form or answer them as you go by having the video AND Courseware open simultaneously.

So you need a Courseware account -- if you don't already have one, the link to set one up is on my website:

www.math.uh.edu/~dog.

Popper answers go into EMCF forms I've set up for you in Courseware.

There are 4 Modules of information in the course. Each has a popper and a homework set. The homework sets are uploaded to Courseware under Assignments. PRINT THEM OUT and fill them in -- do not use notebook paper, please.

Also, as there is MUCH new material for you to learn I want you to split your consciousness. Learn the material and OBSERVE how you learn it effectively. I have 3 writing assignments to this effect, for grades!, as work for you to do.

There will be a midsemester and a final that you will take at CASA Testing by appointment. The dates will appear in the calendar soon.

So Courseware opens on Monday...you may start on the videos this weekend if you want -- they are on MY website and open now.

I look forward to renewing acquaintance with some of you -- I see some familiar names on the roster...and getting to know some of you -- there are some new names, too.

If you have questions after you check out the syllabus on my website, send an email!

More to come,

Ms. Leigh
